

The Community College Facility Coalition (CCFC) is a statewide coalition composed of community college districts, facility planners, architects, developers, financial institutions, attorneys and consultants. This diversity of membership will enhance CCFC's effectiveness and credibility when lobbying the Legislature for Community College facility issues.

Our major purpose is to advocate for adequate State and local revenues for facility construction and to provide comprehensive information regarding community college construction and funding issues. Our highest priorities are:

- Increasing the funding level provided for community college capital outlay
- Modifying the approval process to permit quicker approval and construction of needed facilities.
- Providing information to districts regarding changes and new requirements in the approval process.
- Identifying alternative funding sources for community college facilities.
- Supporting legislation for a majority vote approval of local bonds.

Benefits of membership include: (1) a regular newsletter on pertinent issues regarding capital outlay; (2) workshops to help members overcome the bureaucratic and legislative hurdles in the project approval process; (3) Annual Conference; (4) meetings and correspondence to inform members of current and prospective issues in community college capital outlay, and; (5) advocacy before the Legislature and the Administration on behalf of the Coalition and the community colleges.

CCFC has been in the vanguard of the statewide bond campaign efforts since the formation of the Coalition. After a slow start, our Proposition 47 effort resulted in our exceeding the community college goal. Action last summer by the CCFC Board of Directors established a new fundraising goal for the community colleges based on $1 per FTES. If successful, we will raise in excess of $1.1 million over the next 3 years for bond campaigns. Since the community college facility need was finally recognized with a 40% allocation of the higher education funds in Propositions 47 and 55, it is critical that future bond campaigns be adequately funded by the community colleges.

The Coalition has an important role to play to enable community colleges to meet the demands for postsecondary education in the State. Your active participation in the Coalition is essential to the viability of the organization and the success of our mission.
