Suffolk-Roel (a dba of Suffolk Construction Company, Inc.) is a general construction firm founded on the West Coast that combines the expertise, capabilities, and resources from two of the country's premier building contractors—Suffolk Construction Company and Roel Construction. We have a passion for the business and an unparalleled portfolio of capabilities. We utilize proactive management approaches and have rock solid financial strength. Our team has a relentless drive to add value and to exceed expectations. That's what separates us from the pack. And those are the ladder rungs that elevate us to build smart. Suffolk-Roel has a vast portfolio and strong reputation for providing our clients an unparalleled level of service and quality, and a seamless delivery process. Our experienced project teams specialize in new construction and renovations of Community College, University, and K-12 education facilities. In fact, within the education market alone, Suffolk-Roel has constructed more than $1 billion in the last five years. We operate from a core belief that every education project, no matter its size, is an opportunity to have a role in something that improves and enriches people's lives. There is nothing small in that. Whatever the project budget or level of complexity, our higher education clients can be assured that they'll get the same level of "build smart" expertise, resources, and professionalism.
